DETAILED ACTION

1. This application has been examined. This action is in response to an election requirement filed May 15, 2006. Five (5) informational disclosure statements (IDS) have been considered. Applicants' discussion of relevant documents in the specification is appreciated. Claims (Group II) 60-88, nonelected without traverse, have been withdrawn from consideration. Claims 1-88 are pending. An action on the merits of claims 1-59 (Group I) is included in this Office action.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

2. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

3. Claims 1-5, 7-13 and 15-56 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Chow (6,321,791). Chow teaches a method of making a microfluidic device including “etching” of the host material (substrate) A plurality of “interconnects” (fluid passageways for the device are shown in Figure 3A. A standard microfluidic has passageways of the recited diameter ranges. Particular geometric configurations recited (claims 20-24) are shown in Figure 3A. The etching step disclosed by Chow is readable on “...removing of the fugitive material...” (claim 25). Particular “filling” and “lining material” of the passageways is deemed design choice. With regard to claims 36-40 such recitation is also deemed intended use in that the particular “devices” recited are not interrelated to the microfluidic device (for example formation, growth and repair) as disclosed in the instant application specification and the prior art such as the patent to Dry

(5,803,963). With regard to claim 56 note the “perpendicular configuration” of the passages shown in Figure 3A.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

4. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

5. This application currently names joint inventors. In considering patentability of the claims under 35 U.S.C. 103(a), the examiner presumes that the subject matter of the various claims was commonly owned at the time any inventions covered therein were made absent any evidence to the contrary. Applicant is advised of the obligation under 37 CFR 1.56 to point out the inventor and invention dates of each claim that was not commonly owned at the time a later invention was made in order for the examiner to consider the applicability of 35 U.S.C. 103(c) and potential 35 U.S.C. 102(f) or (g) prior art under 35 U.S.C. 103(a).

6. The factual inquiries set forth in Graham v. John Deere Co., 148 USPQ 459, that are applied for establishing a background for determining obviousness under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) are summarized as follows:

1. Determining the scope and contents of the prior art.
2. Ascertaining the differences between the prior art and the claims at issue.
3. Resolving the level of ordinary skill in the pertinent art.
4. Considering objective evidence present in the application indicating obviousness or unobviousness.

7. Claim 6, and 14 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Chow (6,321,791) in view of Guzman. Chow discloses the claimed invention except for the recitation of the host material being ceramic as taught by Guzman. It would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to use a ceramic material as a host material, as taught by Guzman in order to provide a material having properties for use in a particular environment. With regard to claim 47, Guzman teaches electrodes 24, 24', etc. may be provided in the device. Particular half or tubular passageway configurations are shown in Figure 3A of Chow.

Allowable Subject Matter

8. Claims 57-59 are objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

Conclusion

9. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure.
